

Concerning the Consumer Bankers Association challenge of the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law: As a telephone line subscriber, I am strongly opposed to the CBA's challenge to the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law in desiring to weaken Indiana's law to allow the "established business relationship" exemption to be imposed on Indiana residents. If the CBA is allowed to be exempted from the Indiana law, other business organizations will follow suit and the law will become ineffective, weak and useless. I am asking the FCC to protect my rights to privacy from the banking telemarketers. If my bank wants to contact me, they already have my private number and address. Allowing an exemption to the Indiana "no call" law will encourage telemarketing fraud for potential banking predators. Please protect my rights to peace from the nuisance of the telemarketers. Thanks for your consideration to my remarks on this issue.
